

day 365 plus 200 : its been 200 days now since your last transmission. i dont know if ~~any~~ anyone is alive down there. i could see the blasts from here and its hard to imagine that anyone is maybe its the emp generated by the bombs? im going to keep transmitting anyway. maybe someone will read them someday.

~~365 plus~~ 365 plus 202 you know the initial experiment wasnt bad. a year alone in space. i could do that. i did do that. then you all had to start .. and end.. a war a week before the launch that would pick me up. thanks for that.

day 365 plus 230 : i saw her today. sam , was it? the other guys copycat experiment. when the orbits are just right i can see her station. i guess she can see mine too. i wonder how she is. should i contact her? what would i say? im sorry my country nuked yours? or was it the other way around. i dont know. i wonder if she does. i wonder if she hates me because of it. i wonder if we will both die up here.

day 365 plus 232: whats the worst that could happen? i contact her and she says that she wouldnt talk to me if i was the last man alive? well...

day 365 plus 240 : transmission sent. no response.

day 365 plus 260: the funny thing is maybe i lucked out. i bet food is scarce down on earth but my hydroponics bay has enough food for years. the air on earth is probably toxic but my O2 generation will be fine for years. ironically. in all likely hood i will go insane from loneliness and take a nice stroll out the airlock. how is that for an end to your experiment?

day 365 plus 290 : god, im so alone.

day 665 of space habitation. astronaut sam martinez reporting. this is my last log. my last transmission. i have everything ready. i might die but ill die here anyway. my o2 is almost out. if my escape pod doesnt airlock correctly with his station i will go into hard vacuum. or he might kill me. he probably hates me for what my country did. if he didnt hate me, he probably would have contacted me by now right? i sent him a transmission saying i was coming to his station. he didnt answer. or it didnt go through. i dont know. i wish i knew. i wish i knew ifn he hated me. i wish i knew why my country did it. i wish i knew why people hate so much. maybe he and i will find a way not to.
astronaut sam martinez signing off.